Modern Huck Finns Start On Dream Trip

SOUTH HAVEN — Three men on a raft got the green light weather-wise Friday evening and set sail on an adventure they had long waited to have come true.

SOUTHWARD, HO!: The "Mark Twain" moves out of the Black River Harbor at South Haven Friday, bound across Lake Michigan, through the Illinois waterway and down the Mississippi river as far as she will carry four South Haven adventurers.

BULLETS FLY

Boy, 11, Killed As Dad Battles Police

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Roger Seadars, 11, was fatally wounded Friday when a bullet struck him during a living-room gun battle between police and his father, police said.

The boy's parents and a policeman were wounded, and the family's dog was killed. At least a dozen shots were fired at the home of Charles Otto Seadars.

Seadars, 44, is a factory worker and on probation for conviction on narcotics violations, police said.

Roger was killed by a shot that struck him in the arm and chest.

His mother suffered an abdominal wound. Seadars was hit in the chest, and Patrolman Phil Sheridan, 50, in the arm. Mrs. Seadars and Sheridan's wounds were not serious. Seadars was in fair condition after surgery.

No charges were filed pending ballistics tests and further investigation.

'JUST SITTING THERE'

O'Connor said officers had been sent to the home after Seadars' mother, Stella Arusilla, 70, had called to report that her son was brandishing a pistol in a quarrel with his wife.

Patrolman Clarence J. Sampson and other officers, including Gary Pence, 23, a rookie who joined the force five weeks ago, arrived to find Seadars, his wife, and son seated in the living room.

"He was just sitting there smiling. But then he pulled a gun from between his legs and started firing," Sampson said.

night trip to the Calumet harbor entrance to the Illinois waterway. This morning they will pick up at Calumet the fourth member of the crew, Rev. William Brown of Bellevue, formerly of Bangor, and then continue on their way to the mighty Mississippi.

Despite the name of their craft, the "Mark Twain," the three are not youngsters. Storr, who lives on route 3, 18th avenue, is 41. He is the father of three children; a married daughter and two sons living at home. Storr became a grandfather six months ago. He is the owner of Michigan Mold and Tool Co., in South Haven. Pfaff, 253 Oak street, South Haven, is 35 and owns Marty's Electric Motor Service. He has two sons. Miller, 321 Michigan, is 40, the father of three sons, and owns Al's Plumbing in South Haven.

TIME LIMIT

Their destination is unknown. They plan to go down river as far as they can in 12 days, traveling only by day, stopping to see points of interest along the way and mooring their craft at night.

The men have long wanted to sail the Mississippi in a modern version of the Tom Sawyer-Huck Finn trips. They will however be much more comfortable than those earlier adventures.

The raft is equipped as a houseboat with four bunks inside a screened "cabin" which can be covered with sheets of plastic to keep out rain. There

Motorecyclist Is Injured

Thrown Into Car's Windshield

BUCHANAN — A Buchanan man was injured severely Friday afternoon when he smashed the windshield of a car after his motorcycle struck the front of the auto.

Gordon C. Scheib, 22, of Ross Trailer court, Redbud Trail, was taken to Niles Pawating hospital and transferred to South Bend Memorial hospital where he underwent surgery for multiple lacerations of the face and head and a fractured left leg. He was reported in satisfactory condition today.

Deputy Richard Homminger of the Berrien sheriff's Buchanan substation said Scheib turned off Miller road onto Main street and ran a stop sign in front of a car driven by Mrs. Lester Schabst, 29, route 1, Buchanan.

Scheib's motorcycle hit the right front of the car, Homminger said, and the impact threw him onto the hood and he crashed through the windshield. The deputy said Mrs. Schabst was unnerved but not injured.

Smashups Kill 2 In Van Buren

Driver Faces Charge Of Manslaughter

PAW PAW — Two people were killed on Van Buren county highways early this morning as the holiday weekend was only hours old.

A charge of manslaughter has been tentatively lodged against one driver in connection with one of the deaths.

Paw Paw state police identified the dead persons as Clyde M. Burris, 38, route 1, 41 street, Bloomingdale, and Pietro R. Furlo, 77, of Saginaw.

Their deaths boosted the Van Buren county traffic toll to 11 for the year. Last year the total was 12 on this date.

Burris was the driver of a car which apparently went out of control on M-43 at 52nd street east of Bangor about 2:30 a.m. Police said the Burris vehicle was coming out of a curve when it left the road, traveled 276 feet in the ditch, struck a cement culvert, and went another 69 feet before coming to rest.

Burris, who was alone in the car, was pronounced dead on arrival at South Haven Community hospital.

AUTOS HIT

About 4 a.m., a car driven by David Louis Duerson, 28, Lansing, collided with a car driven by Grace E. Furlo, 39, Saginaw, on I-94 about two miles east of Paw Paw.

Pietro Furlo, a passenger in the Furlo car, was pronounced dead at the scene by medical examiner Dr. F. J. Loomis, who attributed death to a crushed skull and other injuries.

Police said witnesses told them Duerson, who was alone, was traveling at a high rate of speed and ran into the rear of the Furlo car. The Furlo car went off the road and rolled several times before coming to a stop. The dead man was thrown from the car.

The driver and three other passengers in the Furlo car were admitted to Paw Paw Lake View Community hospital. Police said, Grace Furlo had a sore back and ribs and cuts on the legs. Anthony J. Furlo, 41, received severe head cuts and possible back injuries.

Rose Pilditch, 45, Bay City, received a possible back injury, and Mary Furlo, 73, Saginaw, received cuts on the head and legs.

MANSLAUGHTER

Officers said a manslaughter charge had been authorized against Duerson by Van Buren prosecutor Donald Goodwillie, Jr. Duerson received a cut lip and bruises in the crash, according to police.

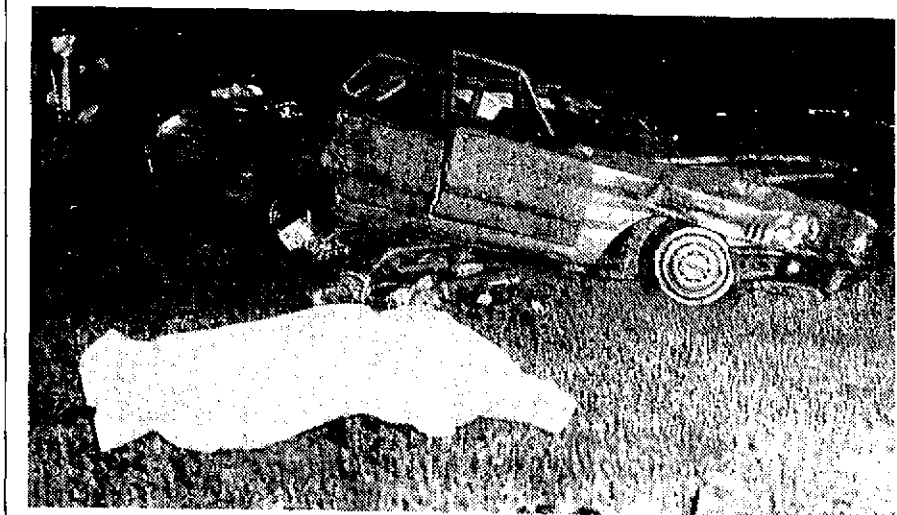

Clyde Burris was born May 25, 1928 in Bloomingdale, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Burris Sr. He was an employee of the KVP Sutherland company, Kalamazoo.

RACE WITH STORK

Hospital Says 'No'; So Baby Born In Car

A four-pound baby girl was born in the back seat of a Berrien county sheriff's car en route Friday morning to Berrien county hospital after the parents said they had been denied admittance to Buchanan Community hospital.

Mrs. Ollie Breland, a Cleveland avenue, rural Buchanan resident, was denied admittance to the Buchanan hospital late Thursday because she and her husband had no hospital insurance and no cash, according to a nurse at the hospital. The Brelands were told to go to the county hospital.

The administrator at the Buchanan hospital, Dr. Loren Hatch, said Mrs. Breland was not admitted because "she didn't appear to be in active labor" and had time to go to the county hospital.

The baby girl was born at 8:44 a.m. on Shawnee road in Oronoko township as Sheriff's Sgt. Donald Jewell drove the parents to Berrien county hospital. Breland, 28, delivered the baby in the back seat according to Jewell's instructions.

The stork won the race by about 10 miles.

Deputy's Daughter Drowns

10-Year-Old Is Cass Victim

CASSOPOLIS — Listed among the first fatalities of the Fourth of July weekend was the drowning of Deborah Ann Simmons, 10, daughter of Cass county Sheriff's Deputy and Mrs. Milton Simmons of 276 Reed street, Marcellus.

The drowning took place at Hemlock lake, a public fishing site north of Marcellus, at 3:25 p.m. yesterday.

Deborah was with her mother and two brothers, Douglas 9 and Wendell 8. The girl was found in about three feet of water.

The Marcellus fire department emergency squad who arrived shortly after the incident, administered artificial respiration but could not revive the girl.

She was pronounced dead at the scene by Doctor U.N. Adams of Marcellus.

The body was taken to the Romig funeral home in Marcellus where services will be held at 2 p.m. Sunday.

Lake Temperature

The temperature of Lake Michigan today is 55 degrees.

Hot, Sunny Weather Is On Tap

But Drowning, Fatal Crashes Add Grim Note

Hot, sunny weather is on order all through the entire Fourth of July weekend, and law enforcement and safety officials issued appeals of motorists and swimmers alike to exercise added care against accidents.

While heavy holiday traffic poured in and through Southwestern Michigan on the freeways during most of the night, two lives were lost in smashups in Van Buren county.

A 10-year-old girl, daughter of a Cass county deputy sheriff, was drowned in Hemlock lake near Marcellus Friday afternoon.

One person died in a crash on M-43 near Bangor about 2:30 a.m. today, and another lost his life on I-94 near Paw Paw around 4 a.m. Police officials said traffic movement was heavy on the freeways most of the night.

Meanwhile, a big influx of weekend vacationers began moving onto the beaches and inland lakes of the area before noon today.

SOARING TEMPERATURES

Temperatures that are predicted to get into the 90s each of the three days of the long weekend likely will make swimming, sunning and sailing the most popular activities of the holiday period. Safety and police agencies urged particular care in all waterfront activities.

Traditional fireworks are scheduled for the entertainment of visitors and home folks in a number of towns of the area as the holiday comes to a close Monday night.

One display of fireworks will be presented earlier. Fairplain Plaza will put on a pyrotechnics show at dusk Sunday.

PLANNED FOR DUSK

The arrival of dusk — around 9 p.m. or perhaps slightly earlier — will be the signal for fireworks exhibitions Monday evening at Filstrip field in Benton Harbor, at Lakeshore high school grounds, at the north and the south beaches at South Haven, and in Berrien Springs, New Buffalo, Galien and Decatur.

South Haven also will be the scene Monday of a traditional Independence Day parade, starting at 11 a.m., as part of the Blueberry Festival that opens there today. The festival is scheduled to run for eight days.

John F., Jr. Is Burned

HONOLULU (AP) — John F. Kennedy Jr. has received "mild burns" from a campfire on a Hawaii beach.

The son of the late President suffered what his mother described as "minor burns to his right hand and buttocks." John Jr., 5, was reportedly tugging at a sleeping bag when he stumbled and fell into the still-hot coals of a beach campfire Thursday.

The Kennedys — John, his mother, sister Caroline, 9, and cousin Sidney Lawford — were visiting Parker Ranch on Hawaii Island, 200 miles southeast of Honolulu, when the accident happened.

The picnic was being held on a nearby beach belonging to Mauna Kea Hotel.

Immediately after the accident, John was treated by Dr. Keith Nesting of Hilo, on Hawaii Island. The family returned to Honolulu Friday.

TONS DUMPED

Area Strawberry Crop Hit By New Disaster

By BRANDON BROWN
Farm Staff Writer

An area strawberry crop hit by spring frosts and recent high temperatures was struck late this week by yet another disaster.

Hundreds of tons of berries were lost after some were found infested by an insect never before known to hit berries — the flower beetle.

A spokesman for the local Federal-State Inspection Service's fruit and vegetable section said inspectors found infestations of flower beetle larvae in berries Thursday morning and that infestations got progressively worse.

Most area processors closed down their strawberry processing lines Thursday and Friday.

The larvae, or maggots, were discovered only in overripe berries and hatched in recent hot weather. The beetle normally feeds on ornamental flowers growing near the ground.

Hundreds of tons of berries were reported abandoned, either through dumping at processing plants and receiving stations, or left in the field.

PREPARE FOR '67

Michigan State university Extension Service agents and entomologists were scheduled to meet with chemical company representatives next week to plot a spray program against recurrence of the beetle problem in 1967.

One local extension agent said little can be done to save berries this late in the season.

In one instance, 2,500 lugs worth more than $10,000 to the growers were reported dumped after maggots were discovered.

The flower beetle and larvae never before were known to seriously affect strawberries.

The discovery of infestations Thursday was equaled by one processor as similar to a nuclear blast in a berry patch. He said processors would attempt to eliminate the problem themselves, but apparently found infestations too widespread.

Most processors shut down Thursday, and more followed suit Friday.

The maggots grow to a length of a quarter-inch. Up to 12 were found in one berry.

Greetings To North Vietnam

The air attacks on the Hanoi and Haiphong industrial complex at home and abroad.

The Japanese and Filipinos applauded the bombing of the fuel oil storage sites as a long delayed and necessary deterrent to continued Communist aggression. The same reaction comes from Thailand and Indonesia, the latter just recently liberated from Communist domination.

The European reaction, except for the official words from Prime Minister Wilson of Great Britain, shifts from hostility to apprehension.

It follows in more forthright form the sentiments expressed by some Congressmen who feel stepping up the war's pace is a poor way to lure an opponent to the peace conference table. This view has substantial support from the man in the street, even among some who have been saying the U.S. should fight or get out by not try to hang suspended between the two poles.

These air raids followed shortly on a leak in Washington circles which rumored that the Administration was planning an expansion of our military effort. The usual denial ensued and then the big blast let loose.

Three principal reasons appear to motivate taking the fight into the enemy's territory.

One is purely military. The North Vietnamese for some time have been dispersing their fuel dumps and other supply depots in anticipation of what took place this week. The U.S. military leaders finally convinced the President that now is the time to obliterate the target before it is scattered beyond effective demolition.

Secondly, the Administration is betting that a blow against North Vietnam will not bring Red China into the conflict to any greater extent than she is now funneling supplies and technicians to the enemies of South Vietnam. This hunch has to be premised on the further guess that Russia would not permit its Communist partner to stray from her uncertain neutrality.

Finally and perhaps most important of all is the psychology in the move.

The direct attacks on Hanoi and Haiphong are a demonstration to friendly southeastern Asian countries to continue their resistance to Communist aggression from China and in so doing they can count on active American support.

The assaults are also designed to silence critics within the Administration itself who make no pretense of hiding their opinion that Defense Secretary McNamara is taking LBJ down a primrose path to all out war. These are the spearheads in the "nervous Nellies" group which Johnson singled out for a tongue lashing at a recent college commencement address.

Across the globe from Washington this same message is beamed at the leadership in North Vietnam.

The Communists 12 years ago shoved the French out of what then was French Indo-China not through military punishment but by a mental drive against Frenchmen in the homeland. The French public gave up long before their soldiers lost the Dien Bien Phu stronghold.

The North Vietnamese leaders and the Viet Cong in South Vietnam have counted on this same homefront weariness to bring the war to the same stalemate which later can be converted into a less bloodier victory for the Communists.

Johnson seeks to turn the tables and by intensifying the U.S. effort infuse that sense of weariness into the Reds.

His action is the calculated risk, but no other choice is available.

Our country and its Free World counterparts some time ago resigned themselves to the fact that Communism is here to stay. This is the doctrine of peaceful co-existence.

This does not, however, have to concede that the Free World should remain on the defensive and allow Communism to peck away at its preserve under such conditions and timing as the latter chooses.

This is the way the schoolboy bully terrorizes the good kids until one of two things happens. Either the good kids become penned up at home or some tough minded good kid flattens the bully at his own game.

TO CONSTRUCT TRUCK PLAZA

Construction of a $625,000 truck plaza could start Tuesday if the state highway department grants permission for a driveway off the I-94 interchange at Sawyer. The truck stop, to be built by developer Robert Miller of Ohio would include a grocery store, harbor shop, truck service garage, and a motel for truckers.

The decision to locate the plaza in Sawyer was made in 1961 according to Miller, but insufficient water supply was given as the reason for not starting earlier. The problem was solved this spring when Chikaming township board approved an expansion of water lines to Sawyer.

TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

Just what is an American? California-bred Bill Kennedy has it figured out. An American, says Kennedy, is a man who tootles home in a German car from a French movie, slips off his Hong Kong suit and Italian shoes, puts on his English robe and Mexican slippers, and quaffs a cup of Brazilian coffee while sitting on Danish Furniture. Then he writes a stiff letter to his Congressman demanding that something be done forthwith about all the gold that's leaving the country.

There was a flurry in the reception room of Doctor McGozlick last Wednesday morning. A patient emerged from the inner office boisterous. speaking of YOUR HEALTH

By Lester L. Coleman, M. D.

Victims of hemophilia, the royal disease that causes bleeding, have in a most dramatic way been given a new hold on health. An exciting discovery has revealed the substance which, when absent from the blood, interferes with coagulation.

The anti-hemophilic factor (AHF) was developed by Dr. K. M. Brinkhouse at the University of North Carolina. With Dr. Edward Shann, a specialist in blood diseases, Dr. F. Dr. Coleman Thelin, himself a hemophilic, has been able to extract AHF from blood plasma and preserve it for a long time.

Previously the AHF in blood plasma could only be stored for a short period. Now, in a dried form, AHF can be kept in ordinary refrigeration for more than a year without a change in its value to the hemophilic.

Dr. Thelin is one of the first bleeders to benefit from his own scientific experiments. He has been treated successfully with AHF for two hemorrhages, one in the brain, the other from a peptic ulcer.

Out of these intensive studies on Dr. Thelin and other hemophiliacs comes the possibility of preventing the hemorrhages that threaten the lives of those afflicted with this hereditary malady.

READERS' RELATED QUESTIONS

Why is hemophilia called the royal disease?

Intermarriage of closely related cousins happened frequently among many of the royal families of Europe. The descendants of Queen Victoria of England transmitted the hemophilia characteristic to the royal families of Germany, Spain and Russia.

Each person is born with the dominant and recessive characteristics of his mother, his father and his grandparents. Recessive characteristics tend to diminish with each successive generation. But with close family intermarriages the recessive characteristic of bleeding shows up in hemophilia.

Is there a reason why hemophilia does not occur in women?

Almost always the bleeding tendency of hemophilia occurs in the male. It is practically unknown in the female, even though the hereditary tendency is transmitted through the female. Women may carry the disorder without having any of the symptoms of the disease during their entire life.

Has the life expectancy of the hemophilic been increased since it was first recognized?

The hemophilic now has an excellent chance for a long life. Repeated transfusions and the use of the new antihemophilic factor have even made surgery less dangerous to the bleeder.

Opening lead — three of hearts.

Most players look upon the squeeze as a play beyond their capabilities, but actually, the great majority of squeezes require nothing more than elementary play to be successful.

Consider this hand where south is in four spades and gets a heart lead. East wins the trick with the queen and returns the jack of clubs. Declarer takes the club with the king and plays the ten of spades, which loses to the queen.

East then cashes the ace of spades and plays the ten of clubs to the ace. Declarer ruffs a club and now plays a spade to the jack, at which point this becomes the position:

All that declarer has to do now to make the contract is lead the king of spades. This simple play forces East to discard a heart or a diamond, and in either case, South makes the rest of the tricks.

If we go back to the beginning of the hand, we find that East made the wrong play at trick two, when he returned a club instead of a heart. East should have realized that the heart lead by West had to be either a singleton or a doubleton.

In both cases, a heart return was relatively safe because West would either ruff the heart immediately if he had a singleton, or ruff the heart later if he had a doubleton.

It was certainly not easy for East to anticipate that if he failed to return a heart at trick two he would eventually run into a squeeze, but who ever said that bridge is an easy game?

BORN TODAY

German composer Christoph Willibald von Gluck was born in 1714 at Weidenwang near Berching, in Bavaria. After teaching music in Prague, he went to Vienna in 1736.

and then, in 1738, to Milan, where he studied for four years under San-Martino.

In 1741 he wrote his first opera, "Artaserse." Seven others followed in the next four years, all in the current style which he was later to reject.

Having achieved some reputation, he was invited to London, where his study of Handel became the turning point in his career.

In 1762 he produced "Orfeo ed Euridice," which, with its simplicity, naturalism and emphasis on drama rather than vocal virtuosity, struck the keynote of the modern music drama. This work, oldest opera still generally performed, was revised and given a French libretto in 1774. It was followed by "Alceste"—prefaced with a statement of principal setting forth his new operatic aesthetic—and by "Iphigenie en Aulide," which utilized a French libretto.

His last two important operas, "Armide" and "Iphigenie en Tauride," were produced in Paris where he retired, honored and comparatively wealthy.

Now It Rests At Hollywood

Rare Trophy For Royaltown Township School

By MARJORIE KEHLSTROM
Staff Assistant

A two-ton star has made its way to Hollywood. The "star" is a meteorite which fell in the summer of 1893 northeast of the Hollywood elementary school in Royaltown township on property which was then owned by Wallace Frost.

Charles Grove, present owner of the property, was told by neighbors that the Frosts were seated on their porch on a warm summer evening when the fiery ball appeared in the sky. At the time it seemed as if the meteorite would strike their home. However, it landed in the back yard instead and imbedded itself in the ground.

Connie Both, an 11-year-old neighbor of the Groves' wrote to Frost's daughter, Mrs. E.A. Southwick, of Seattle, Wash. to find out more about the meteorite. Mrs. Southwick replied that since she was four years old at the time she did not remember much about it. However, her father did tell her that the hot meteorite had fallen at night during the summer and buried itself in the ground in a field behind the house. The area is now the Hollywood Heights subdivision.

Grove was also told that the Frost loaded the rock onto a stoneboat and hauled it to the front yard. It took two teams of horses to pull the load.

Mrs. Grove said that the meteorite has remained in that area every since and many visitors, most of them former neighbors or relatives of neighbors have come to view it.

ANALYZED

Mrs. Grove said that several years ago an area teacher clipped off a piece of the meteorite and analyzed it as being composed of felsite and phonolite.

Felsite is a dense rock consisting of feldspar and quartz which is produced under conditions involving intense heat. Phonolite is a fine grained volcanic rock, some varieties of which split into pieces which ring when being struck.

Since the Grove property is located on Till road, half mile east of Hollywood school, the attention of Hollywood school Principal Lloyd Mallet was drawn to the meteorite. He felt that since the meteorite fell so near to the present school site, it would seem logical to have it on the school lawn where the public could easily visit it.

Mallet also said "it could stimulate student interest in astronomy with a 'fallen star' right in front of the school." Mallet spoke to Grove about the possibility of moving the meteorite to the Hollywood school grounds. Both Mr. and Mrs. Grove agreed.

Carl Schultz, school custodian, and Mallet constructed a support for the meteorite and Ben Nye, Lakeshore school board member, donated a large tractor equipped with a fork lift.

BREAKS LIFT

Mallet said that the weight of the meteorite was so great that, during transportation, there were times when the front wheels of the tractor were actually lifted off the ground. The big piece of rock was barely in place when the fork lift broke. "We were fortunate that it did not break while on the road," Mallet said.

After the meteorite had been securely placed on the support, Schultz and Mallet dug a hole five feet long, three and a half feet wide and one and a half feet deep around it. They built a form at the surface of the ground and poured one yard of concrete which hardened around the meteorite to form a permanent base.

The "fallen star" now rests proudly upon its base in front of the school facing John Beers road.

Christian Science

"Look unto me, and be ye saved, all the ends of the earth: for I am God, and there is none else."

This will be the Golden Text for a Lesson-Sermon on the subject "God," to be read at all Christian Science church services Sunday, July 3.

LEONARD J. SMITH
At Age 90

LEONARD J. SMITH, route 2, L Empire avenue, Benton Harbor, celebrated his 90th birthday Monday. Mr. Smith, who has lived with his daughter, Mrs. Artillis (Adelaide) Taylor, for the past four years, was born June 27, 1876, in Lawton.

Mr. Smith was a mail carrier for the Benton Harbor post office from 1908 to 1934, according to Mrs. Taylor. She said he also went into contracting work from the post office.

Among his boyhood recollections are walking on a narrow-gauge railroad between Paw Paw and Lawton. He said he was born in a log cabin and that his mother died when he was only six years old. He came to Benton Harbor as a young man.

Among his favorite past-times are watching bowling on television. "Now that I'm 90, I think I'll slow down a little," Smith said.

A Benton Harbor built Avion pickup camper is headed for central Africa, to become the home of a Baltimore, Md. missionary and his family.

This ties in with the legend, "Another Avion—heading for adventure," which is posted on all units, Avion officials said. However, it also shows that not all campers represent only travel and vacation fun, or can look forward to the leisure life.

Jack Lacey, veteran of 13 years as a missionary in Africa, will be taking his family to the remote hills and villages of the Kigali Rwanda east of the Congo in an Avion camper. The 8 1/2 foot camper will be their home for the next few years. Lacey purchased the camper

Gallons In June

A record 150,302,000 gallons of water was pumped by the St. Joseph pumping station in June, Don Bedford, water plant superintendent, has reported.

The last record amount was in August, 1959 when the station pumped 148,227,000 gallons of water.

There were no record-breaking days. The highest recorded day last month was 7,159,100 gallons.

The new hookup with the Lakeshore division of Bendix Corp. and more people sprinkling more lawns plus unusually high temperatures contributed to the record.

Benton Harbor firemen were called out on two automobile fires Friday. Both were out before firemen arrived at the scene.

Two Job Corpsmen Warned

Others Labeled
By S.J. Police

Two members of the Fort Custer Job Corps center were apprehended by St. Joseph police Friday night at Silver Beach accused of being drunk and disorderly.

Reprimanded and released were Charles Steven Lee, 18, and Wilbur George Cochran, 22.

Cochran, who told police he is a "corpsman counsel," held nearly all the identification cards of a busload of men visiting the amusement center. Patrolman Cliff Ward, who arrested the pair, said he rounded up the men on the bus and "sternly warned them that they were not going to behave in this city as they did in Battle Creek and Kalamazoo, where riots occurred."

Ward said he further advised them that St. Joseph police are not out to cause trouble for the corps or any of its members, but that "we would not put up with any disorderly persons in their ranks."

DOG BITES GIRL

A five-year-old Clarkston girl visiting in St. Joseph was bitten behind the right ear by a dog owned by Frank Kolbert of 212 First street.

The girl, Dorothy Honey, was taken to St. Joseph Memorial hospital where she was treated and released.

Kolbert told police his dog, an Alaskan husky, is trained as a watch dog. He said he told the girl to stay away from the dog, but she got too close.

The animal has all its shots, police report, and will be checked in 10 days to find out whether he is rabid.

FIRECRACKER INCIDENT

Residents of the Flanders place-Morton avenue neighborhood reported a youth shooting large firecrackers and were worried that small children might be injured.

However, when police came to check the report, no neighbor who had seen the incidents would sign a complaint.

Gustav Schulz of Bridgman reported the right front fender of his auto scratched and dented. Police said it appeared someone had used a board with a nail in the end to do the damage.

Retiring Journalism Dean Is Honored

BH Graduate Served At Wisconsin U.

It's been a long time since Ralph O. Nafziger carried his textbooks through the corridors of Benton Harbor high school. He was graduated in 1915.

The years since have been filled with the honors that come with hard work. The end is not in sight.

Nafziger this year was retired from his post as director of the University of Wisconsin School of Journalism. He held the post since 1949. Retirement was dictated by the approaching age of 70.

TESTIMONIAL DINNER

Graham Hovey, a New York Times editor, termed "retirement" the wrong word, when he spoke about Nafziger at a recent testimonial dinner at Madison, Wis.

"He ends a tour of duty here and takes off in a different direction," Hovey was quoted as saying by a Madison newspaper.

Nafziger's new direction is India. He will leave in August to serve as a consultant on the establishment of a mass communications center.

As to past honors? There was the passage of a resolution last May by the Wisconsin State Legislature. The resolution thanked Nafziger.

"For his long, faithful and outstanding contributions to journalism and the teaching of journalism and for his commendable service to our country."

The resolution was introduced in the State Senate and adopted with the Assembly concurring to the man.

CONFERENCE ROOM

Students many years from now will carry their textbooks into the Ralph O. Nafziger conference room to be located in a wing of the new communications arts building on the University of Wisconsin cam-

"The Frontiers of Journalism" was the title of a symposium in May honoring Nafziger on his retirement. Among the participants was a former student, Robert H. Fleming, White House deputy press secretary.

Others include Marquis Childs, chief of the Washington bureau for the St. Louis Post Dispatch; Charles Roberts, White House reporter for Newsweek; Fred Harvey Harrington, president of the University of Wisconsin; J. Russell Wiggins, editor of the Washington Post; Wilbur Elston, associate editor, the Detroit News; John M. McNelly, associate professor of Journalism, Michigan State University; and Warren Miller, professor of political science, University of Michigan.

B.H. RELATIVES

Clippings on Nafziger's past activities and program bulletins were relayed to this newspaper by his sister, Mrs. Don Wynkoop of Nickerson avenue, So.odus township. A brother, Herbert Nafziger, resides on Elm-

Hull park, which has no pool, drew only 399. Wild said, adding that attendance still is not good at Hull school.

At new recreation sites, Stump-Nickerson was highest with 358, while Bard drew 350 and Boynton 306. There were 275 at Lafayette, while Fairplain East led the half-day centers with 225, Wild said.

The swimming program began on a successful note with about 180 attending the first day at Kluck park.

Area Man Crushed By Tree

Grand Junction Worker Is Killed

GOBLES — A Grand Junction man was killed yesterday when a tree he was trimming rolled on him.

Van Buren sheriff's deputies identified the man as Clyde E. Gentry, 31, 102nd avenue, Grand Junction.

Deputies said Gentry had felled a tree, and was apparently trimming off the branches. They said the tree was tied to a tractor with a chain, and one of the links of the chain appeared to have opened, allowing the tree to roll.

Officers said Gentry was working with Royal Remington, route 1, Bloomingdale, when the accident occurred. Remington, with the assistance of some boys in the area, managed to get Gentry from under the tree. Dr. Joseph Cooper, chief medical examiner for Van Buren county, pronounced him dead at the scene.

PLAGUED SEASON

The area strawberry deal was in the process of winding up the 1956 season after a cold-weather delay of about two weeks in the start and two weeks of recent 80 and 90-degree weather that hastened ripening and lowered quality.

Processors throughout the area had bought 1.5 million pounds of berries through last Saturday. The statewide processing total at that time was 2 million pounds, compared to 3.3 million pounds statewide during the same period last year.

The final season total for Michigan processing last year was 13.9 million pounds.

U.S. Girl Sentenced By Reds

Accused Of Aiding Berlin Escapees

OAK RIDGE, Tenn. (AP) — The mother of Mary Helen Battle says her husband may go to Germany "sometime in the future" to see if he can help their daughter, sentenced to four years in prison by an East German court.

After a U.S. spokesman in Berlin disclosed the sentence Friday, Mrs. John Battle of Oak Ridge said she had known since April 19 that Mary Helen, 25, was sentenced by a New Brandenburg district court on a charge of helping refugees escape to West Berlin.

"We have not said anything about it because we wanted to see what else could be done for her," said Mrs. Battle, adding: "I think we will go to Germany sometime in the future. At least my husband will. I don't know about myself. My health has been bad lately."

She said the family regarded the sentence as "very harsh" because they had no definite charge against Mary Helen.

Miss Battle, a 1958 graduate of Oak Ridge High School, was arrested in East Germany last Nov. 24. She had been studying theology at West Berlin's Free University.

Battle, an electrical engineer at Oak Ridge National Laboratory, was in Washington Friday conferring with lawyers and State Department officials.

SOUTH HAVEN FIRE

Tourist Helps To Save Four Children

SOUTH HAVEN — A tourist having a picnic across the street helped a South Haven mother get her three young children out of their burning house yesterday.

City firemen said J.W. Hollis of Clinton near Ann Arbor, spotted smoke coming from the rear of the Dan Price home, 111 Park avenue. He ran to the house, helped Mrs. Price get her three children, 4 years, 14 months and 3 months, outside and called the fire department.

Firemen put out the blaze which burned out the kitchen, living room and back porch of the one-story home.

Hollis, his wife and three children were cooking a picnic lunch in Oakland park across the street when Hollis saw smoke coming from the rear of the house. Mrs. Price told firemen she smelled smoke and had gone to investigate when the flames broke out and swept quickly through the house. Her husband was working at Michigan Fruit Cannery.

Firemen said they could not determine what started the fire. Damage to the house owned by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stuckum of South Haven was not estimated.

ONEWAY

For entertainment, Pfaff stowed away his guitar and expects there will be plenty of time on the leisurely trip for some quiet singing.

The crew will not bring the craft back to home port. They will either sell it at the last port of call or abandon it. Mrs. Storr will be advised of that location and will drive the family station wagon there to pick up the adventurers for the return trip.

COLLIS AND PLAYBILL

MEMORIES of a class play in 1898, staged by students in the old Benton Harbor College, came to R.B. Collis on his 57th birthday today.

Collis, of 847 Broadway, Benton Harbor, found an old playbill for the junior class presentation on Hamlet. Collis said he was president of the freshman class and served as an usher for the play, presented by the Juniors. It was March 11, 1898, and he produced was held in old Conkey's hall on Pipestone street, near the present Michigan Gas Utilities Co. office.

The playbill listed a cast of 20, not including lords, ladies,

Migrant Camp Bill Is Signed

Center Planned For Niles Area

A bill to construct two migrant farm labor overnight camp-informations centers at unnamed locations in southwestern and southeastern Michigan was signed into law Friday by Gov. George Romney.

The new legislation, introduced by State Rep. Raymond Kehres (D-Monroe) would use an unestimated amount of funds available in a federal grant to build the centers for thousands of migrants who enter the state each year in search of seasonal employment in fruit and vegetable harvests.

No specific locations are named in the new law, but two have been suggested in southwestern Michigan.

Husband Is Bound Over In Slaying

Keeler Area Man Accused Of Shooting Wife's Friend

By BILL HAMILTON
Paw Paw Bureau

PAW Paw—Jay Louis Hughes, 28, route 2, Keeler, was bound over to circuit court on a charge of first degree murder following a preliminary examination yesterday in Paw Paw.

Hughes had been arrested by South Haven state police early Wednesday morning, June 8, in connection with the fatal shooting of Dwight Murrell, 28, route 1, Grand Junction. Hughes is alleged to have shot Murrell in a 12-gauge shotgun loaded with 00 buckshot. Murrell had arrived at the home of Hughes' estranged wife, with Mrs. Hughes in the car.

Yesterday's preliminary examination was conducted by Bangor Justice of the Peace Walter Sticksel. Testimony and arguments took over three hours before the decision to bind over was handed down by Sticksel.

Much of the time was taken up by a running argument between prosecutor Donald Goodwillie, Jr., and defense attorney Lewis Williams over whether or not conversation by Hughes should be admitted into testimony.

South Haven trooper Jack Brandel, a veteran of 10 years with the state police, testified that immediately after Hughes was placed under arrest, he (Brandel) had stopped Hughes from saying anything until he had been advised of his rights. In spite of this, testified Brandel, Hughes then related the circumstances of the shooting.

William argued that even this was not sufficient notice of the defendant's rights, according to the new Supreme Court ruling. He continued to object to all testimony regarding Hughes' conversation.

TROOPER TESTIFIES
Trooper Neil Dailey, who was riding with Brandel in the patrol car the night of the shooting, testified that when the patrol car arrived on the scene, Hughes and his wife were standing beside the road. When Dailey got out of the car and inquired who Hughes was, Dailey testified, Hughes replied "I'm the man who shot him."

Dailey said Hughes then handed over a 12-gauge shotgun loaded with a slug, and an ammunition belt.

Dr. Daniel Glaser, pathologist, testified that Murrell had died as a result of nine pellets from a shotgun striking him in the chest area. He said three of the pellets entered the lung, while two more went through the intestinal tract.

Dailey also testified, over Williams' loud objections, that Hughes had told him that he (Hughes) had intended to shoot at Murrell's groin.

Dailey said the pellets from the shotgun apparently struck the hood of Murrell's car and bounced upward into Murrell, with all nine pellets of the charge striking the body.

At the end of the testimony, Goodwillie moved to bind Hughes over to circuit court on a charge of first degree murder. Williams continued to argue that no legal evidence had been entered to show that Hughes had committed a crime, because much of the testimony was illegally admitted.

Mr. Kasischek, moved approval of the above report and that the Director of Finance be authorized to issue vouchers in payment of the several amounts. Roll call resulted as follows: Yeas: Commissioners Ehrenberg, Houseal, Kasischek, Rill and Tobias. Nays: None. Absent: None. Motion declared carried.
